Hampton office block green light

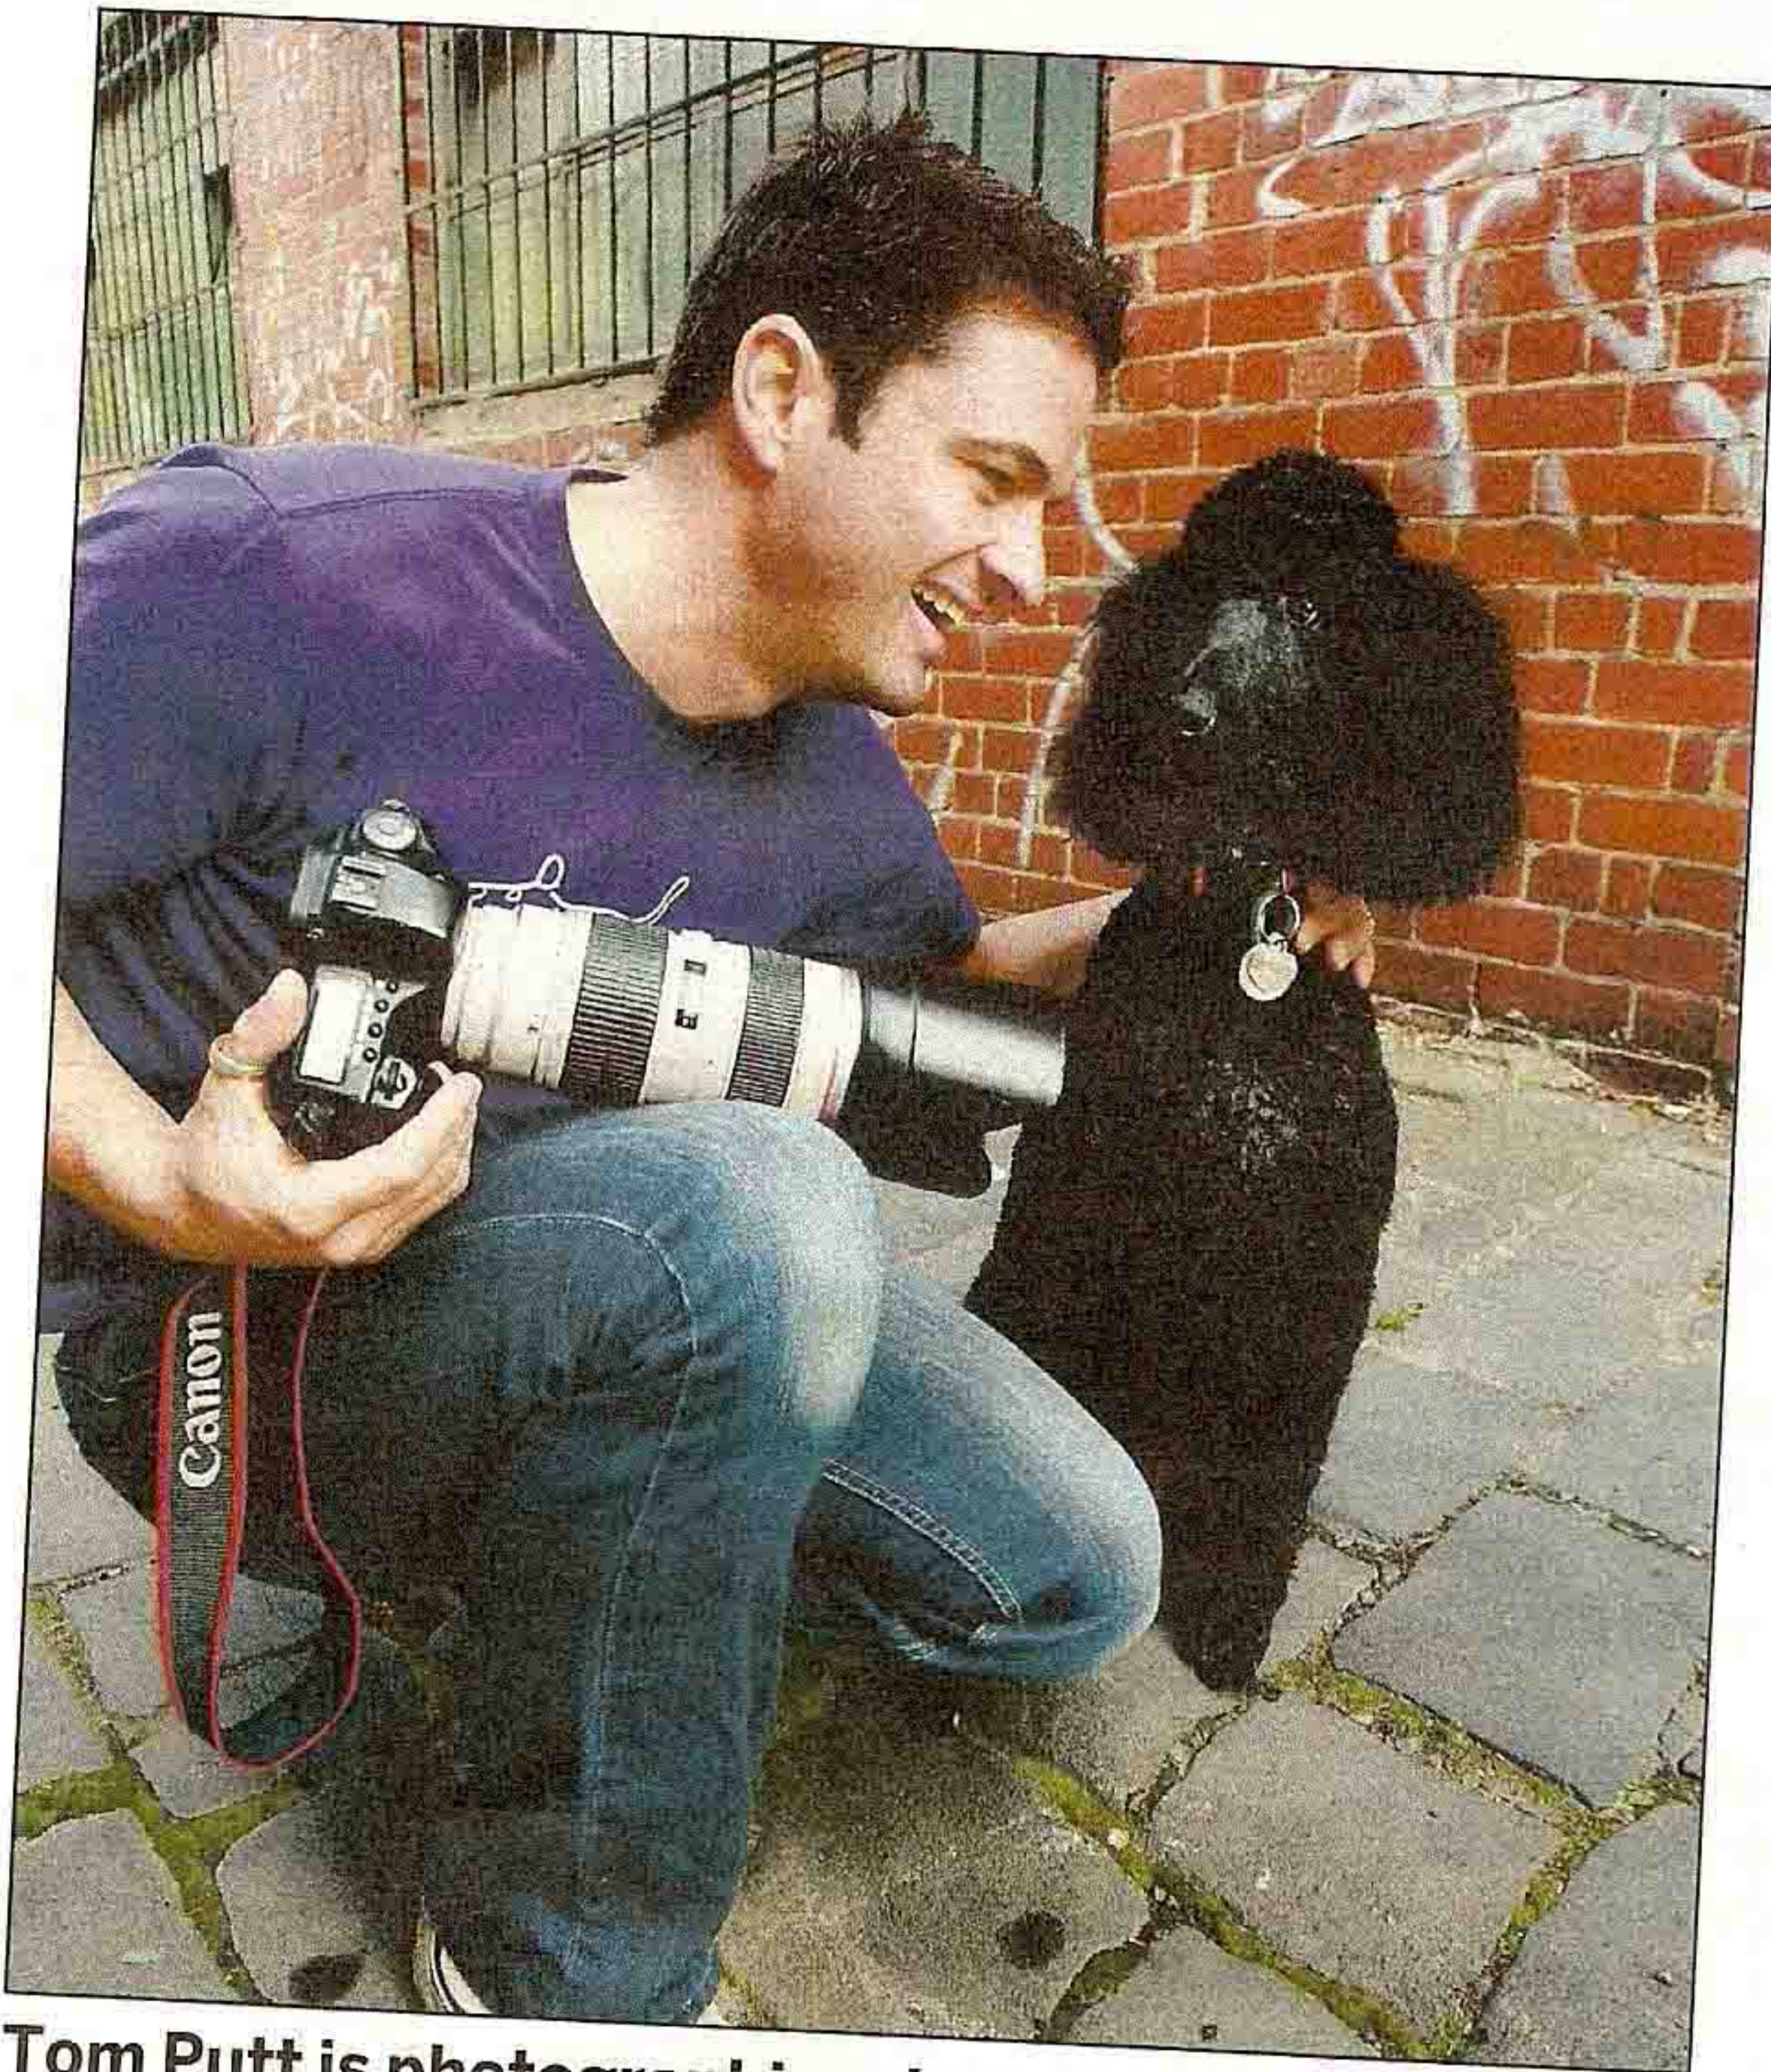

BAYSIDE Council has approved a plan to build a three-storey office and apartment block in Hampton, despite 28 objections.

In a split decision, the council endorsed the Small St application as it was in a major activity centre, which encouraged more dense residential and business developments.

The objectors said the proposal was an overdevelopment that didn't suit the area.

Fresh focus on Fido

Tom Putt is photographing dogs for a book to raise money for the Lost Dogs' Home.

HANDSOME hounds, cute canines and photogenic pooches are the subjects of Brighton photographer Tom Putt's latest fundraising project.

For the past three years, Putt published Kids of Bayside, a coffee table book featuring more than 400 children from the area, raising more than $25,000 for children's charities.

This year, he is taking photos of dogs of all shapes and sizes to raise money for the Lost Dogs' Home.

"People say you should never work with kids and animals... but it has been fantastic," Putt said.

For a $75 donation, families can have their four-legged friends photographed for the book, which will be called Woof!

Putt said he hoped to photograph up to 400 dogs for the book and to raise about $10,000.
